Dear Mr. Mauborgne:

Thank you for your recent letter regarding the article that recently appeared in Newsweek.

I share your concerns and am appreciative of your support and views. Be assured that the Agency's budget is highly scrutinized by the Congressional Intelligence Oversight Committees. Because leaks are a serious security concern, we continue to look for ways to minimize them.

Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ William H. Webster

Dear Director Webster:

I read the article in Business Week, October 12, 1987, Webster's CIA, and I do think you are on track with the given task.

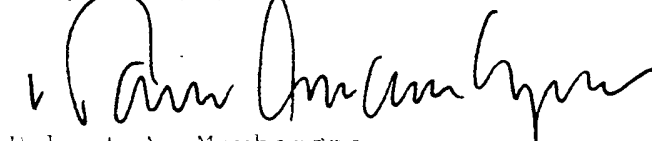

From the pictures and the story it looks like a very large operation.

The thought came to mind, is there any way to control the cost of the operation, and to prevent the leaks to the press that has been told?

I trust that your subordinates will work as a team and support the program that serves this Nation, and it's ideals of Liberty and Freedom, to advance the well being of man kind.

With best wishes.

Very truly yours,

Robert A. Mauborgne
